EVERY ONCE IN A WHILE

Somewhere between love and gratitude
Disappointment there resides
But you hid it well and I never understood
Till the moment that you cried
You spread your wings so close to Hollywood
But they never let you fly
Let me know who you are
Fill the emptiness inside
And I can take you to the stars
If you will go with me tonight
Cause every once in a while love flies
With the angels of the golden sky
And every once in a while love opens your eyes

Safe within these walls I never had a clue
What it meant to live outside
And there you were free embracing truth
With sanctuary in your eyes
I tried to talk to you I did everything I could
To fill the emptiness inside
Let me know who you are
Fill the emptiness inside
And I will take you to the stars
If you will go with me tonight
Cause every once in a while love flies
With the angels of the golden sky
And every once in a while love opens your eyes
